General Membership Meeting

October 10, 2015

7:00 p.m. at the Lakewood Elks.

Come early and have dinner with friends.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

My Corvette family,

I can feel it in the air...Fall, or Autumn for the purest is creeping upon us and the pumpkins in Char's garden are HUGE!!! This is my favorite season of the year and while I do not look forward to the copious amount of leaves I will be raking it sure is fun to have Charvette go roaring down a back road with the leaves flying all around [;)

The club is doing well!! There have been many awards taken home from numerous shows not only from our seasoned members but from some of our newest members as well! Congratulations to everybody!!

Be aware that the October membership meeting is the last time to cast your ballots (in person) for the 2015 executive board, NCCC representatives and the man and woman of the year...AKA the "NEWE AWARD". If you are not able to make the meeting, the club secretary will see to it that a ballot is mailed to you. PLEASE be sure to have the ballot returned to the mailbox no later than the November Board of Directors meeting. The ballots will be counted at the November board of directors meeting and the new Executive Board and NCCC representative will be announced. These findings will be presented at the membership meeting.

As the weather begins to cool...take care to properly maintain and winterize your Corvette. There are a few events left for the year as well as a surprise sunny day that calls for a drive with the wind in your hair!

Save the wave,

Dennis Petersen

OTHER NEWS:

Callaway Corvette C7.R GT3 racer debuts at Hockenheim

Callaway Cars is known for taking Corvettes to the extreme, and soon it will be doing that on the track. While Chevy already campaigns Corvette C7.R racers in the IMSA and FIA sports-car series, Callaway will build a version specifically for the budding European FIA GT3 class.

That car, the Corvette C7.R GT3, debuted over the weekend at the Hockenheimring in Germany. It will debut next season, competing against a wide variety of production-based machinery, and this should make for some interesting racing.

While Callaway Cars is based in Old Lyme, Connecticut, the C7.R GT3 was built by its racing division, Callaway Competition, in Leingarten, Germany. Per GT3 rules, the car retains some of the features of a stock Corvette, but it only takes one look to realize that this isn't an ordinary Stingray.

The car is powered by a 6.2-liter V8 producing 600 horsepower, which is channeled through a six-speed, paddle-shifted Xtrac sequential gearbox. It also gets some serious cosmetic work, with massive fender flares, a huge rear spoiler, and numerous aerodynamics-related modifications. The interior has also been completely gutted, with all of the usual luxuries replaced by a digital gauge display and a parade of switches.

The first C7.R GT3 will be raced by Callaway's own in-house team. It will compete in "a variety of racing series worldwide," Callaway says, although it's unclear if it will ever appear stateside. Either way, the factory-backed Corvette C7.Rs will continue to fly the flag in the U.S. next year in the WeatherTech SportsCar Championship.

Those cars are built to FIA GTE specifications, a higher level than GT3. The latter class' lower cost of entry has attracted a variety of manufacturers over the past few years, from Cadillac to Bentley to Lamborghini. That gives fans the opportunity to see cars that are at least somewhat similar to ones they can actually buy going head-to-head in competition.

The 2015 5-Star ended with an available balance of $5479.60. This number reflects the net proceeds of $4419.60 plus the $1060.00 start-up money from the 2014 event. Below are the proposed distributions as discussed by the 5-Star committee.

Dennis Petersen asked if there was any more discussion regarding this motion. There was no further discussion and the motion was put to vote, and passed unanimously.

Alisa wanted to thank everyone who contributed to the raffle and silent auction. Those two were a large part of 5 Star making money and would not have been possible without all the generous members of the club.

NATIONAL CORVETTE MUSEUM

21st Anniversary Celebration a Success!

Elvira and I, along with more than 700 of Corvette enthusiasts, ventured to Bowling Green, KY to attend the National Corvette Museum's 21st Anniversary Celebration.

I attended the Skydome ribbon cutting and grand opening and the 1 Millionth Corvette reveal. I also attended two seminars, "What's under the Skydome?" by Dr. Jason Polk (WKU) and "Skydome & Sinkhole repair" by Zach Massey CM. On the floor of the Skydome, they have taped markings showing the outline of the sinkhole and also the cave located below the Skydome. There is an access hatch with a partial "window" in the floor leading to the cave. The sinkhole exhibit will be underway in the near future.

On Friday night, we attended the Hall Of Fame Induction Banquet for the induction of Herb Fishel, Russ McLean, and Rick Hendrick.

I attended "Meet the New Plant Manager", Kai Spande, which was informative. He talked about the new $4 million paint booth that will be completed in 2017. The current one was installed when the plant opened in 1981. The new paint booth will be leading edge especially designed for the Corvette Plant for the various types of "fiberglass" that makes up the Corvette.

The "Introduction of the 2016 Corvette" seminar was a repeat of the seminar at the Bash in April with one interesting update. The 2016 Corvette entertainment system will now interface with your iPhone with the Android interface coming in the future. You will now be able to use Siri on your iPhone thru your Corvette system.

On Saturday, Elvira availed herself to the Ladies' Oasis and had a back massage. There is something at this event for everyone.

NCM Motorsports Park Construction Update

Construction is progressing nicely on the large berm being built on the property between the Motorsports Park and the Clark Circle neighborhood. The berm construction will be complete in just a few weeks. (Noise mitigation)

The new Mobil1 fuel station is now complete and available for self-service use. Racing fuel is available in 98, 100 and 110 octanes. Regular fuel in 87, 89 and 93 octanes are also available, as well as diesel.

The Holley Control Tower and Event Center project is well underway. The steel outer structure is in, and walls are beginning to go up. Construction is still on track to have the facility complete prior to the spring season!
